Meet: Belki

Location: Aalst, Belgium

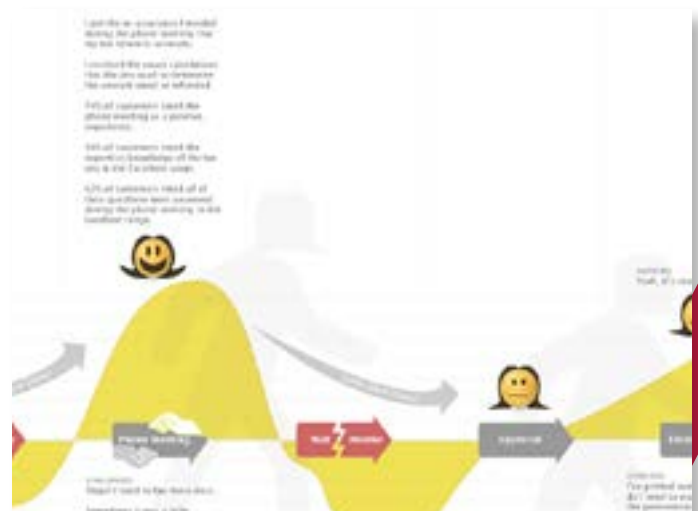

About:

Belki has been a leading poultry slaughterhouse for almost 25 years, with a unique product range (organic farm chicken, Mechelse Koekoek, corn chicken, chicken preparations) present in the top segment of Belgian retail and poultry wholesalers in the Benelux and France.

What can I expect?

Belki is a large professional organisation, where in addition to the slaughter of broilers, a wide variety of poultry related activities take place. Quality and hygiene are of paramount importance for which strict protocols are in place. Depending on your job, you work in a cool environment and it is physical work. In the canteen there is a microwave available to heat up your meal.

Description job

Chicken hanging: as a chicken hanger you are hanging 'live' chickens onto hooks on the production line.

Chicken tying: you will be tying the legs of the chicken with rubber bands. To get an idea how this works you can watch this movie:

Chicken filleting: Reversing the fillets coming out of the machine and removing bone and grease. Carrying out work on and around the production line in accordance with the instructions applicable to the workplace. Using simple mechanical tools or operating these tools.

"Belki is a professional and well-organized company. A nice job and a nice atmosphere on the work floor."

What does Belki stands for?

Belki has defined a mission: "Our mission: To develop sustainable forms of cooperation between poultry farmers, slaughterhouse and our customers, with the ambition to bring the best products to our end users".

With more than 200 enthusiastic employees, Belki realises a turnover of approximately 65 million euro and invested more than 3 million euros in extra cooling and cutting capacity in 2013. Nominated in 2013 as "Trends Gazellen, fast growing company in East Flanders".

Belki is part of the Joosen-Invest family group (Turnhout), active in cattle and fish feed, flour mill and fish farming (Royal Belgian Caviar).

Location

Aalst, Belgium

What can we offer you?

The accommodations are mainly typical Belgium cottages, which are a great alternative to the bungalows offered by other agencies. All the houses we offer are fully equipped with kitchen, bathroom, rooms and other utility rooms. We always try to make sure that the accommodation is as close as possible to the company you work. We do anything for your well-being!

We want to make sure you are feeling at home, that's why we offer you more than just work.
